Commerce Day set for April

By ELLIS CUEVAS

The Hancock County Chamber of Commerce will sponsor the annual Commerce Day during early April, according to Dick Kosbab, education committee chairman.

Kosbab said, "Last year was our first, and we feel it was a very successful event with some 175 local high school juniors visiting a business or professional's office for one day."

"The comments we received from both students and sponsors were all very favorable and this year's program will be very similar," Kosbab added.

Kosbab continued "Questionnaires are to be mailed to prospective student sponsors this week to help our committee have a selection of fields of interest to offer the local juniors."

"Last year we were able to place over 90 per cent of the students with their first or second request, and we hope to do so again," Kosbab stated.

Juniors from Bay Senior High, Hancock North Central, St. Stanislaus, Our Lady's Academy, Trinity Christian Academy and Coast Episcopal High School participated last year.

The exact day in April for Commerce Day will be set later this month, Kosbab said.

Arrests made in Waveland burglaries

By ELLIS CUEVAS

Three persons were arrested in connection with a rash of recent burglary of dwellings, and a fourth person for allegedly receiving stolen property according to Waveland Investigator Robert (Poochy) Tartavouille.

Tartavouille said, "Thomas E. James, 22, 504-A, Camille Circle; Mike E. Miller, 20, no address; and Kenny E. Lewis, 23, Singleton St., all of Waveland were arrested in connection with several burglaries during the past week. David J. Bourgeois, 26, Silver Creek Acres, Kiln, is charged with three counts of allegedly receiving stolen goods."

No bond has been set for each of the four, as the cases were being further investigated late Saturday.

James has been charged with six counts, Miller four counts, and Lewis four counts of alleged burglaries so far, Tartavouille reported.

The arrests were made on Thursday and Friday.

The dwelling burglarized were in the Waveland area, and most of the homes were unoccupied according to Tartavouille.

The investigation is being conducted by Tartavouille and Waveland Investigator Sandra Henley with assistance from Hancock County Sheriff's Investigator Delbert Seay.

Coast Electric not negligent

By BREARD SNELLINGS

Coast Electric Power Company was not negligent in a case involving electrocution burns on a young Bay St. Louis woman, according to a 10-2 vote of the Hancock County Circuit Court jury Friday evening.

Susan Garcia, 24, claimed damages totalling $431,598 "for pain and disfigurement" suffered when the mast of a sailboat she was holding came in contact with a high voltage power line at Playtime Bay Marina.

The suit also named boat owner Larry Massey and marina owner-operator Robert Dugger, both of whom settled before the trial for $50,000 and $2,500, respectively.

Massey, whose 27-foot sailboat "Albus" was involved in the incident, died in a motorcycle accident after his insurance settled with Ms. Garcia last year.

Ms. Garcia suffered second-degree burns over 30 percent of her body, when she, Massey, his wife Sandy and Cindy Lucas were raising the mast of

Youth Court caseload increases in January

By EDGAR PEREZ

The Hancock County Youth Court conducted hearings for nine youngsters in January, according to Deputy Clerk Jeannette Drummond.

Dispositions in those cases include probation under supervision of a youth court counselor for three; a term in the state institution for delinquents for another, and a return to the custody of parents under supervision of the Welfare Department for a fifth youth.

The alleged offenses which brought the defendants before the court included one auto theft, three larcenies, one DUI or DWI, and one violation of parole.

Drummond said sources of referrals in January include four from parents or guardians, one from the Welfare Department, six from Bay St. Louis Police Department and three from Hancock County Sheriff's Department. Fines were ordered in the amount of $450 during the month, with some $198 collected.

Restitution was collected in the amount of $130 and $29 was paid to victims of juvenile crime, the clerk reported.

The court's active caseload at the end of the month included 44 on probation, 10 on parole, three in training school, 74 under jurisdiction of the Welfare Department and 10 others.

That caseload of 141 is up seven from the number of youth under the court's jurisdiction at the end of December, Drummond revealed.

State commission to decide drilling waste terminal fate

By WAYNE DUCOMB JR.

State Bureau of Marine Resources officials in March will advise the Department of Wildlife Conservation Commission in Jackson whether or not to approve construction of a planned drilling mud waste handling terminal on the East Pearl River.

Several Pearlinton residents object to the Mississippi Pumping Service, Inc. proposal to dredge a canal and build the terminal upstream from them on the Pearl in the former Napoleon Community.

Jerry Mitchell, Coastal Programs Division chief of the BMR in Long Beach, reports Curtis Johnson, president of Mississippi Pumping of Bay St. Louis, is requesting a change in the Coastal Wetlands Use Plan to build the terminal in old Napoleon in the National Space Technology Laboratories Acoustic Buffer Zone.

Mississippi Pumping is asking the existing general use district classification in the Napoleon area be changed to an industrial district which would allow location of the terminal, Mitchell explains.

The BMR chief says written and oral comments, submitted during a recent public hearing in Bay St. Louis and accompanying comment period which ended Friday, are now being reviewed by the bureau.

Mitchell notes the bureau will recommend approval or rejection of the proposals at the commission's mid-March meeting.

The commission is the state's governing authority in such matters. U.S. Army Corps of Engineers approval is also needed for the project, but a spokesman for the Corps' Vicksburg District office says that agency will concur with the state ruling.

Johnson says his original plan to dig a 890-foot-long canal perpendicularly from the Pearl is now reduced to 480 feet, but the proposed 12-foot depth and 150-foot width will be maintained.

The company is barging in waste drilling mud from Louisiana and Alabama offshore oil and gas exploration wells through Port Bienville, transporting the material by tank trucks to pits on Bayou LaCroix and Firetower Roads, and extracting various reusable substances from the fluid, Johnson explains.

He says he hopes to import the mud wastes through the proposed terminal.

The Bay businessman says he is planning to move from Port Bienville Industrial Park because it is a low-lying area which would not protect his barges and tugs in the event of a hurricane and the cost of property there is too high.

However, Pearlinton residents Jane Montz and Vicki Bounds disagree with Johnson and say Port Bienville is a logical location for the waste transfer terminal.

The two at a recent BMR hearing presented a petition with 633 signatures of Pearlinton, Ansley, Bay St. Louis and Pass Christian residents opposing the wetlands district classification change and the proposed terminal.

In addition, letters expressing opposition to the terminal from Bounds and Denise Wilkinson, also of Pearlinton, were published in the Jan. 30 and Thursday issues, respectively, of The Sea Coast Echo.

They feel spillage of the waste drilling fluid into the Pearl is inevitable and will permanently damage the river basin ecosystem.

Johnson states "there is no chance of spillage" because his terminal operation would include safeguards such as levees and the only Coast Guard approved oil mud pumping system.

He says "minor" spills occurred at Port Bienville, but these were quickly cleaned up.

The two Pearlinton residents also fear increased barge traffic will erode river banks which would ruin fishing, swimming, skiing and other water-related sports in that area.

In addition, they feel more river traffic would increase chances of a collision with barges carrying explosive liquid hydrogen and oxygen utilized in Space

Quadroplegic operates ham radio

By BREARD SNELLINGS

John Gavagnie, 42, has a general ham radio operator's license and is now working on his advanced license.

Nothing unusual about that, right? Wrong. Gavagnie just happens to be a quadroplegic, having lost the use of all his limbs in an automobile accident some 13 years ago.

Gavagnie resides at Hotel Reed Nursing Center, where he has been the last 10 years.

He became interested in ham radio nearly three years ago, learning to operate the machine with his teeth on special plexiglas knobs and handles.

Gavagnie first got his novice license in July, 1980, then passed the test for his technician's license in May, 1981.

He got his general license in September, 1981, and that's the one on the wall above his bed at Hotel Reed. Gavagnie operates the radio from his bed in a sitting position and from a wheelchair. He talks over the set from his bed.

"I can operate the radio with the sound of my voice over a voice operator control (vox) box," he explained.

Gavagnie has talked to other operators around the country and in several foreign countries, including Africa, Denmark, Korea, Germany, Switzerland and Nicaragua.

Most of his conversations are in the Bay-Waveland area, and he says he knows of at least five other ham operators in the area beside himself.

Bay police looking for check forger

Bay St. Louis police are looking for Michael Stringer, 21, on a charge of check forgery.

Stringer, of Route 2, Box 64, Bay St. Louis, was arrested Monday and charged with two counts of forgery. He then escaped, and is still at large.

Stringer ran out of the Bay St. Louis Police Station while he was being booked.

Stringer had previously escaped from the same police station while being booked for possession of controlled substance paraphernalia several months ago, but was captured that time.

According to Bay St. Louis Police Chief Douglas Williams, Stringer was arrested by Investigator Murray Ladner after being notified by Frankie Warren that checks belonging to a Dr. William E. Calvert were being cashed in the city of Bay St. Louis.

Investigation by Officer Ladner revealed that the drivers licenses of Warren's daughter and niece had been stolen one year ago at a Waveland lounge, and were now being used as identification for cashing Calvert's checks.

Calvert moved out of the Bay area in 1979, and apparently some of his old checks were retrieved from the trash receptacle outside his office.

Mary Ann St. Clair, 20, of 870 Blue Meadow Road, Bay St. Louis, has also been arrested and charged with one count of forgery. Bond has been set at $2,500.

Waste Water District eyes $110,000 budget

By BREARD SNELLINGS

The Waveland Regional Wastewater Management District figures it will have a tentative budget of $110,000 to work this year.

The new body, which was formed at the first of the year, met Wednesday night and proposed the upcoming budget based on projected figures of the number of waste water facility users in Waveland and Bay St. Louis.

The Waveland Board of Aldermen Tuesday night approved a monthly sewerage rate increase of $2 per user, and the Bay St. Louis City Council, which meets Tuesday at 7 p.m., is expected to follow suit with the same $2 user fee for Bay St. Louis residents.

Waveland Mayor John Longo, who chairs the authority, said there are 2,126 users of the service in Waveland and 2,500 users in Bay St. Louis.

"This would give the authority a total management fee of $9,200 monthly to the district, or about $110,000 a year," said Longo.

Bay St. Louis Mayor Larry Bennett, a member of the authority, moved the city of Waveland be levied a $2 user fee for waste water disposal, knowing this fee has already been ratified by the Waveland Board of Aldermen. The motion passed.

Bennett then said he was certain the Bay St. Louis City Council would follow suit, and said he would bring the necessary motion out at the Tuesday meeting.

Longo said at the end of the budget year, a rate decrease is possible if there's a surplus, or the excess could go to the cities on a 60-40 percent basis, with 60 percent to Bay St. Louis, since there are more users in that city.

"But the $2 fee should cover our annual costs," said Longo. "That's what we asked for and that's what we got."

The new waste water district was formed at the start of the year to save residents of the two cities money based upon the fact the regional waste water plan was costing some users as much as $20 a month in sewerage bills.

"The new district will save Bay-Waveland people much more money in sewerage costs," he added.

Longo said as soon as the Bay council passes the $2 users fee, the district will think about bringing equipment up to date and getting the flow meters going.

In other action:

-Delta Process Equipment of Denham Springs, La. was accepted for submitting the low bid for replacement parts for an Alles-Chalmers Centrifugal Pump.

-Merchants Bank was selected as the depository for authority funds.

-Recording Secretary Ethel Schott was given approval by the authority to visit the surplus store in Jackson, and purchase office equipment.

-The next meeting of the authority is set for March 2.

Waste

Shuttle engine testing at NSTL.

Johnson says on an average his company will move three or four barges each month along the Pearl.

The company president considers himself an "environmentalist" because the service his company offers helps prevent drilling companies from dumping drilling mud into waterways and roads as in the past.

"We're an environmental company. We don't plan to tear up anything and we plan on handling our business in a professional way," he states.

"The only danger will be if they don't allow a facility like this and illegal dumping resumes," Johnson reports.

Regarding trees cut down on NSTL property adjacent to the terminal site, Johnson says, a tree-cutting crew he directed to clear his property accidentally cut the trees.

He reports he has purchased tugs and barges for his operation costing some $3 million and will locally hire about 35 people to operate the company's fleet, terminal and dumping areas.

"A few individuals can cost the county a lot of money because they assume something will happen," Johnson states.

Montz feels the proposal will be approved in spite of local opposition and angrily says, "If you've got the money you can forget the people because you can force your will on the people."

Ham

"I use the radio for communication with other operators and haven't done any emergency operations on the set as yet," said Gavagnie. "It would be difficult for me to keep tabulations of events during an emergency operation, but I think I could do it if I had to."

Gavagnie said he usually works on the ham radio in the morning and evening hours, talking and listening to it an average of about 20 hours a week.

"I listen on the band until a familiar voice comes on, then I talk with him, he said. "I can also call individual operators by their call number."

"The usual procedure is to wait for a break on the frequency and then ask if you can join the conversation. If no voice is coming over the radio, you ask if the frequency is clear. You never interrupt another conversation."

Gavagnie uses a two-meter operation to talk to local amateur radio operators, depending on good atmospheric conditions.

erty to estimate the value. What will he be doing? C. B. Cleveland Dear C.B.:

The income or capitalization approach to appraising is based on the assumption that a property's value is equal to the present worth of future rights to income.

Income is derived from two basic sources.

First is the stabilized income which is received from the operation of the property.

Stabilized income refers to an expected series of dollars that are averaged out over a number of years so that no one year materially distorts the economic productivity of the property.

In other words, if major repairs are made every 10 years, the expenditure should be spread over the economic life of the repairs.

Second are the net proceeds that are received when the property is sold at the end of the investment holding period. Both sources are considered in income property appraisal.

The first step an appraiser takes is to estimate the stabilized net operating income of the property. The appraiser will ask to examine the books and receipts reflecting the previous three to five years of the project's operation.

Comparison will be made with the performance of similar properties in the market and with industry-based operating ratios. In addition, the appraiser will physically inspect the property to evaluate its condition and whether any major improvement must be made in the near future.

The second major step taken by an appraiser is to select an appropriate capitalization rate.

A capitalization rate is used to convert a future income stream into a single present value figure. Once a rate has been chosen, a value estimate is made by dividing the expected income by the chosen capitalization rate.

The value derived is thus a function of both the estimated income and the chosen capitalization rate.

For answers to your questions, write Dr. Dennis Tosh, P. O. Box 295, University, MS 38677.

weeks for treatment of her burn injuries.

Testimony showed that the Massey party arrived at the marina in a pick-up truck trailing the 21-foot sailboat, and decided to rig up in a parking area, rather than block traffic since the launch was occupied. None of them saw the powerline overhead.

Coast Electric Manager Henry Thomas testified that the powerline was 29 feet above ground, and that the national safety code required only 20 feet where there was no reasonably foreseeable public hazard, and 45 feet if there was a reasonable public hazard.

The jury apparently decided no reasonable public hazard was presented by the 29-foot line, and therefore no need for raising the line to the maximum of 45 feet.

James Compton, attorney for Coast Electric, stated the area used by the Massey party for rigging the boat was a parking area not intended for boat rigging, and that the marina had existed and been served by Coast Electric for 27 years without mishap before Ms.

Garcia's accident.

Compton also argued that Coast Electric had no right to erect warning signs of a high voltage line on the marina property.

Boyce Hollerman said his plaintiff and he would consider an appeal.

Today we start the Mardi Gras parade season. The Krewe of Nereids is scheduled to start from the Choctaw Plaza Shopping Center and travel east to Kate's Kandy Shop, and then west down US-90 to Our Shopping Center.

There should be thousands along the route shouting, "Throw me something, mister," or since the group is made up of a group of ladies, "Throw me something, miss!"

We are hoping many folks will come out to view Nereids and catch a few trinkets.

We know the ladies have been working very hard in preparation for this, their 17th annual parade. It is hard to realize this will be the 17th parade.

To us, it seems every year the parade gets better and better.

In talking to one of the members of the organization, they report two new large floats will be added this year. The duke's are scheduled to ride on one of the new floats.

We shouldn't forget the men Sunday, as the Krewe of Eros will again follow the ladies parade. Guess men are always following the ladies.

They will again have two floats and are ready for the big parade. There will also be several marching groups and individually entered floats.

So, we hope to see you at the Mardi Gras.

On a subject of a more serious nature, there will be a Blood Drawing Wednesday, Feb. 9, from 2 to 8 p.m. at the Clement R. Bontemps American Legion Post's home on Blue Meadow Road in Bay St. Louis.

A quota of 100 units has been set, and J.D. (Big John) Rutherford, chairman says the only way this can be reached is if there is a large number of persons to show for the drawing.

We know there are several persons in our area who over the years have donated 30, 40 and even more than 50 units of blood. And they only gave one unit at a time, so you can see there are some real civic minded citizens among us.

Many of the workers, such as doctors, nurses, and record keepers have been doing their chores for years. So, if you are 17-years-old or older and can give a unit of blood, it will be appreciated very much.

We know the students of St. Stanislaus have really helped in recent drawings, there should be numbers of students from other schools as well.

We attended an interesting press conference Wednesday morning involving Civil Defence Director Robert (Bobby) Boudin and School Superintendents J.D. McCullough and Terrell Randolph.

The reason for the special conference was for the superintendents to give their reasons for having school on days like last Tuesday.

The superintendents are faced with some serious decision making within only a short period of time when we have unusual weather.

We came away from the press conference with the impression, that schools should remain open, if any way possible.

This is when you consider the overall safety of the students.

One thing brought out at the conference was the fact that many of the children would be without adult supervision if school would not be open, as both parents work in many families.

A fine example was given by Boudin, who said he had conversation with a bus driver who reported 26 out of the 27 students she picked up Tuesday morning did not have a parent at home. Normally she has 50 or so riders, but, still this is a high percentage of students without parents at home during the day.

NEREIDS ROLLS TODAY—The 17th annual Mardi Gras Parade of the Krewe of Nereids is scheduled to roll down US-90 at 2 p.m. today. Theme float features "Yankee Doodle Dandy." The parade is to start at Choctaw Plaza Shopping Center and travel east to Kate's Kandy Shop and then west to Our Shopping Center, Waveland. (Staff photo by Ellis Cuevas).

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Attorney criticizes Bay City Council's contracting procedures for Small Cities projects

To the Editor:

On Tuesday, Jan. 25, 1983, I went to a City Council meeting in Bay St. Louis and heard statements made by a rehabilitation specialist requesting the council to approve and adopt proposed contracts to rehabilitate 20 houses.

That in itself seemed normal enough to me and the council did vote to approve the contracts.

What the specialist said to the Council caused me to investigate these contracts and some of my findings forced this letter.

Of the 20 houses let out for contracts, two were not contracted (on the information given me). The lowest bids on 14 of the remaining houses were rejected and the reasoning for rejection is classic: "They couldn't do the job for the bid price."

One would assume that to be rejected as stated, the contractor would be disqualified for future biddings, but not so with the specialist.

The next contract went to the rejected contractor and the lowest bid was rejected and so on to completion.

Four contracts went to the lowest bidders, twelve went to the middle bidders and two to the highest bidders.

The irony of this is that the bidders could bid on all the jobs, but had little hope of winning the job with the lowest bid.

Why?

The contractors were good enough to do the job, but not smart enough to bid on the contract.

Isn't it possible that the contractors were more knowledgeable about cost production than the specialist? Their biding depends on the finished product. The lowest bid should have been awarded the contracts.

I learned that the maximum amount allowed to repair a house was $10,000, but this specialist told the Council one house would cost more so he had the owner deposit $500 plus dollars in the bank, the amount not allowed by HUD and contrary to HUD guidelines. Why the guidelines, if they're not followed?

The City Council should reevaluate its action of Jan. 25 and all previously approved contracts with the intent to recoup and recover all illegal and unlawful losses.

How much Federal money has been squandered and wasted by such illogical and unlawful actions? HUD and/or the Justice Department should investigate these contracts and these actions. These projects have been too loosely supervised.

EFFICIENCY IN GOVERNMENT

The 1983 Legislature is in full swing, and already there are indications that there will be less money to go around for state programs.

The State Budget Commission has forecast a substantial revenue shortage this fiscal year and has taken steps to soften its effect on state programs.

Legislative leaders have indicated that, with the special session's passage of sales tax and income tax increases, there will be no new taxes enacted during this session.

All of this means that state fiscal leaders and agency heads more than ever will have to find ways to cut inefficiency and waste from their operations.

So state and local government officials should redouble their efforts to get the maximum use of taxpayers' dollars.

The Mississippi Economic Council has long felt that simple, efficient use of public funds will go a long way in helping relieve budgetary problems at the local and state levels.

Making prudent use of taxpayers' money is not simply a slogan on behalf of good government — the times require such a policy.

The People's Business

SCHOOL CONSOLIDATION

The Mississippi Legislature is well into its 1983 session and already a number of major issues have surfaced. One which we didn't expect to see debated this session is the question of school consolidation.

The Education Reform Act, which was passed in the special session in December, covers a broad range of education issues—including school consolidation. The Act provides that the new lay state board of education will study the feasibility of further consolidating the state's approximately 150 school districts.

School consolidation has been a serious problem in Mississippi. Historically, the state developed far too many school districts, creating inefficient use of taxpayers' dollars and seriously diluting the quality of education at the local level.

Mississippi needs to further consolidate its public school systems and thereby make the best possible use of its educational resources. Recent efforts in the Mississippi Legislature to block this newly authorized consolidation study should be defeated. Through the Legislature the people have committed to undertake this important study, and this commitment should be respected.

IN CONGRESS

By Cong.
Trent Lott

NEW CONGRESS, OLD PROBLEMS

The new Congress has returned to Washington facing some of the same problems left over from previous congressional sessions. The challenge of the 98th Congress is to come up with new solutions.

Since the end of the "lame duck" session of the 97th Congress in mid-December, a variety of issues which are expected to be considered in the 98th Congress has been bantered about in the news media and in other forums.

Such issues as the federal budget and its deficit, unemployment and returning soundness to the economy in general are certainly among those to be brought up this year. Importantly, changes are also in store for the social security system to make sure it regains strength and remains in place to help elderly Americans who depend on it.

As a matter of fact, I believe curing the ills in the social security program will be the dominant theme of the first few months of the 98th Congress.

Members of Congress and senators will have in hand a detailed report from a blue-ribbon commission created by President Reagan which offers some solutions. And, hopefully, some of the best minds in Congress, people who serve on the appropriate committees, will get to the task.

Unfortunately, the issue of social security has been so politicized in the past year and a half and exploited by the demagogues that I felt it would be difficult to reach agreement on ways to shore up the system.

It is a good sign that the bi-partisan commission was able to make a final report, even with the fact that all of the commission members did not agree with all of the recommendations. At the very least, the commission's report offers a starting place from which we can build.

In the coming weeks, you will be hearing and reading a great deal about budget deficits and what Congress is doing about them. Already, some portions of the President's suggestions have been revealed on how to reduce the deficits over the next few years.

My personal belief is that reducing federal expenditures is still the best way to reduce the deficit, even though it may not be the only way we will try or it may not be enough. One of the challenges I mentioned earlier will be to reduce the deficit by coming up with innovative legislation.

Of course, the top economic issue of two years ago is no longer a major problem: The rate of inflation is down to approximately 6 percent annually. I do regret that some politicians in Washington seem to have hardly noticed this tremendous improvement.

Also, interest rates are declining steadily, freeing up money for mortgages, car loans and other items at lower rates.

To be sure, improvement is essential in our country's economic picture. That is the job to which much of the 98th Congress will be devoted.

Restored building photos on display

"Buildings Reborn: Mississippi," a photo exhibit featuring building restorations in the state is currently hanging at the City-County Library in Bay St. Louis.

The exhibit examines, through photographs and texts, how older structures can be given new life through adaptive reuse.

Imaginative recyclers often have had an impact that extends beyond the individual project to affect the future of a neighborhood, district, or even the entire city.

Mississippi adaptations spotlighted include Central Fire Station, Central High School, the consolidated American Life Insurance Company Building, the Old Capitol, the Tucker Printing Building, and the Shady Nook, all in Jackson.

Magnolia Hall in Biloxi, the C & G Railroad Building in Greenville, the Ageletty House and Commercial Bank and residence in Natchez, and the Mississippi State University School of Architecture in Starkville are other outstanding restorations featured.

The public is cordially invited to view "Buildings Reborn: Mississippi" and

County Agent's Notes

by John Smith

MID-WINTER PASTURE

The extremely wet, generally low light conditions occurring during early January has reduced the grazable forage on many fields. When cattle are allowed to bog in wet fields and graze forage crops shorter than 2-4 inches, the regrowth on these fields will be slow when better growing conditions occur according to John W. Smith, County Agent, Hancock County.

There is always a temptation to graze shorter than 2-4 inches plant height this time of year because the cattle usually need the feed. When winter crops are grazed to the ground particularly under very wet soil conditions, the stand may be reduced and where very few green leaves are left to allow photosynthesis to take place, regrowth will be slow. Producers have no control over the weather conditions but there are several management practices that are suggested to help get the most from winter pastures under these conditions.

Limited or control grazing of 2-4 hours or allowing one good fill daily will stretch grazing considerably. Limited grazing reduces the trampling and manure contamination of forage as compared to full-time grazing.

Also, more than one group of cattle can be grazed on a field using an alternate day system provided a full feeding of good quality hay or silage is available for off-grazing days.

A good filling of well fertilized winter forage along with some hay and/or silage is sufficient to maintain brood cows with young calves except during very severe cold.

Well fertilizer winter pastures contain 20 percent or more protein and up to 70 percent total digestible nutrients (energy). Extension Animal Scientists report that cows grazing full-time will get twice their protein needs and 60 to 80 percent more energy than is necessary.

These Animal Scientists recommend no additional protein supplementation for cows receiving one good fill of high quality forage a day. Dry cows should be separated from herd and be given the lowest priority for winter pasture. Calves need full time access to grazing using creep gates or holes in the fence.

Care should be taken not to feed supplements, in which urea supplies a large part of the protein source, to cattle on highly nitrated winter pasture as the danger of nitrate poisoning may be increased under poor growing conditions. Also, care must be taken when top dressing nitrogen fertilizer to avoid potholes holding water and other drinking water sources. High nitrate levels in drinking water may be as dangerous as high levels in the grass.

It is advisable to give all cattle access to some dry roughage such as hay even if they are grazing full-time. To assure that calves grow off properly and that cows rebreed on time a good level of nutrition must be maintained.

Where stocker calves are beginning to run out of grass, limited grazing can be used along with supplemental grain, hay and/or silage.

Stockers being grazed for sale off grass should be fed enough to keep them gaining at least one pound per day. Where stockers cannot be removed and grass is grazed closer than a two-inch plant height, the feeding of supplemental grain and hay or a bulky grass stretcher type of feed will help relieve the grazing pressure.

It is advisable to make a good mineral mixture available to all cattle. Particularly where producing females are grazing winter grass and growing conditions are poor, this mixture should be fortified with sufficient magnesium to provide the equivalent of 1.5 to 2 ounces of magnesium oxide per day or use a high-magnesium commercial mineral mixture.

Grass tetany is the result of low magnesium even if the soil is amply fortified. However, proper amounts and balance of fertilizer nutrients is the best method to reduce the likelihood of grass tetany.

Winter pastures are expensive to produce, so management practices applied often determine if grazing will be available when it is needed most.

MR. AND MRS. DAVID LANDON

Landon, Beekman wed in Texas

Kay Beekman of Tyler, Texas and David Landon of Aransas Pass, Texas, formerly of Bay St. Louis, were united in marriage December 29 at the Community Chapel in Lakota.

Pastor David Luckert of Lexington, Kentucky and Pastor Michael Nemmers of Lakota conducted the 10 a.m. double ring ceremony.

Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. Ervin Beekman of Buffalo Center and John Landon of Royal Oak, Michigan and Judy Ralph of Waveland.

White pine with holly and pine cones and two candelabra circled a unity candle. Hymns and contemporary Christian music was furnished by organist Mrs. Larry Gray.

Loran Larson, soloist, sang "Wedding Prayer," "That is the Way," and "I Could Never Promise You," accompanied by Mrs. Robert Bronleewe.

The bride, given in marriage by her father and mother, wore her mother's wedding gown, an antique taffeta and rose pointe lace fashioned with a fitted bodice, small Peter Pan collar applied in the lace and seed pearls and long tapering sleeves. The voluminous tulle skirt, terminating in a fan-shaped train, was featured by insertions of rose pointe. She carried a white prayer book, marked with a white orchid and showered with Stephanotis.

Kathy Luckert of Lexington, Ky., was the maid of honor. Anna McIntyre of Waveland, sister of the groom, was matron of honor.

Angie Beekman of Buffalo Center, sister-in-law of the bride, was the bridesmaid. Tara Brass of Buffalo Center, cousin of the bride, was flower girl. The latter wore a long frosted rose dress with a white pinfore and carried an open white Bible with pink carnations.

The matron of honor and bridesmaid wore street length, frost rose lace dresses and carried pink carnations on an open white Bible.

Serving the groom as best man was his brother, Tom Landon, of Miami, Fla.

Lee Beekman of Buffalo Center, brother of the bride, was groomsmen. Ring bearer was Scott Landon of Miami, Fla., nephew of the groom.

Ushering the guests were Tom Landon and Les Beekman.

Following the ceremony, a reception, given by the bride's parents, was held in the church social rooms. Host and hostess were Pastor and Mrs. Michael Nemmers.

Serving punch and hot cider were Sue Landheer and Doreen Logemann. Mrs. Martha Beekman of Buffalo Center, grandmother of the bride, and Mrs. Henry Meyer of Lakota, poured coffee. Cutting the cake were Mrs. Tom Landon of Miami, Fla., sister-in-law of the groom, and Miss Tjada Sweers of Alden.

On return from a wedding trip to Duluth, Minn., the couple resides in Corpus Christi, Tex.

The bride is a graduate of the University of Texas at Arlington and is employed as a nurse.

The groom is a graduate of Bay Senior High School, and of LeTourneau College, Longview, Tex., and is a welding engineer at Chicago Bridge and Iron.

Book Review

By JOE PILET

Any way you look at it the New College Edition of the American Heritage Dictionary of the English Language is quite a book.

Should you wish to expand your words, the book is somewhere between four and a half to five pounds; its bright red hard back is embossed in gold lettering, and it has a wonderful feature called "key to special reference materials."

The book has generous margins, an inch and a half wide, and frequently the page margins have interesting pictures, illustrations or helpful contour maps.

William Morris, editor of the dictionary, gives well deserved credit to his editorial staff, contributors, and consultants — six pages of three column wide listings covering every subject under the sun and a few in space.

The purpose of the book, of course, is to aid people to speak and write clearly — power of communication — and we all know the importance of making ourselves understood in business, social, and daily living situations.

The International Paper Company has given a copy of this wonderful book to every library in the state of Mississippi in the hopes and belief that use of the dictionary will be helpful to students as well as make our "living language" more deeply appreciated.

A debt of gratitude is acknowledged. What finer gift could be given our citizenry?

Pickerill, Breaux reign over BWYC carnival event

The Bay-Waveland Yacht Club presented its ninth annual Mystic Carnival Ball sponsored by the Ladies Auxiliary Saturday, Feb. 29 at the club on North Beach Boulevard in Bay St. Louis.

Their Majesties Francis M. Pickerill and Mrs. Floyd (Betty) Breaux Jr. reigned over the festivities.

Dukes of honor and maids to their Royal Majesties were Mr. Donald Murphy and Mrs. D. Joy Burnett, Mr. Bernard Knease and Mrs. Irwin Cuculu, Mr. Gerard Boos, and Mrs. Frank Golemi, Mr. H. Lewis Spurl and Mrs. Neill Jeffrey, Mr. Edmond Fahey and Mrs. Gerard Boos, Mr. Floyd Breaux and Mrs. William Leapey.

Emcee for the evening was Commodore Maurice Eagan. The Captain of the Ball was Mrs. Edward Brennan and the Co-Captain was Mrs. Russell Lanham.

Their Royal Majesties were toasted by past King Robert Duane and Queen Miriam Eagan and treated to the "Pomp and Circumstance" of a magnificent court presentation.

They danced the night away to the swinging sounds of John Dupaquier's royal musicians.

General court committee chairmen were Commodore Edgar W. Santa Cruz Jr., Vice Commodore John E. Bell III, and Rear-Commodore Frank Allen.

General chairman of this event was Mr. Matthew Hunter and Vice-Chairman was Mr. William Leapey.

General Reception Committee chairman and president of the Ladies Auxiliary, Mrs. Matthew Hunter, assisted in receiving by Mrs. Edgar Santa Cruz Jr., Mrs. John Bell III, and Mrs. Frank Allen.

General floor committee chairman Lt. Col. Randolph Bourgeois and Vice-Chairman Mr. Russell Lanham were assisted by Mr. Algot Green, Mr. Gerard Hamann, Mr. Eldon Gilly and Mr. Kenneth Wilkinson.

Scienna. The very lovely lighting and staging were done by Mr. and Mrs. John Holmes.

Money Talk By Norine Barnes

For the next three weeks I'll give you information on IRA investment options.

How you invest in an IRA will be an important decision. There are many options available but not included are collectibles such as coins, gold, silver, antiques, stamps, or paintings. As with any savings or investing option, you should look for yield and safety.

Financial Institutions (Banks, savings and loan associations, and credit unions)

Fixed rate certificates are being offered for 18 to 30 months. Credit unions can offer certificates for less than 18 months. Minimum deposits vary from $1 to $500, so you need to shop around. No government ceiling has been imposed on these, but they obviously follow the market. Many financial institutions are offering payroll deductions or automatic deduction from another account with that institution.

Advantages include government insurance up to $100,000 and no purchase or maintenance fee. In a falling interest rate market, a constant rate may be an advantage; however, in a rising interest market, this may be a disadvantage.

The disadvantage is that making a change before the maturity date will incur a penalty—loss of 6 month's interest at banks and savings and loan associations. Credit unions do not have to impose the full penalty.

Check compounding since daily compounding would yield more than quarterly or annually. Ask about the effective annual yield.

Variable rate certificates vary in length from 18 to 30 months and the interest rate changes with time and according to some index. Some change monthly, some quarterly. Some are tied to 13-week Treasury bills, others to 26-week Treasury bills.

Advantages include government insurance up to $100,000, no purchase or maintenance fee, and a rate that goes up with market rates over time. Additional deposits are permitted without extending the maturity.

The disadvantage is that when rates are falling, these rates fall while a fixed rate remains constant.

Kim Breland selected '83 Miss Chamber of Commerce

The 1983 Miss Hancock County Chamber of Commerce Pageant was held Saturday afternoon, Jan. 29 at the Gulf National Bank Community Room.

Although the skies were overcast and rainy, nothing could dampen the spirits of the girls who competed in the pageant.

The room was filled with smiling faces, and the judges had a difficult time selecting one girl out of the five contestants.

Those competing in this year's pageant were Miss Kim Breland, winner of this year's title; Miss Vickie Young, first runner-up; Miss Marlene Breaux, Miss Charlene Lacoste and Miss Barbara Boyd.

The girls were given gold and silver necklaces from the Chamber office, and the new Miss Hancock County Chamber of Commerce received many gifts donated by Jeanne's Gift Shop, Darleen Sea Shells, The Furniture Clinic, The Flower Shop, NASA, Buccaneer State Park, Jitney Jungle, Pizza Hut, Rex Roast Beef and Bob Hubbard Photography.

Serving as hostesses for this event were Miss Almee and Miss Michelle Beauregard. The table was set with yellow and white mums and daisies. Punch and cake were served. Arrangements and plans for this pageant were coordinated by Jeanne Garcia, chairman of the special events committee; committee members Jean Lala, Wendy Rupp, Donna Rose, Lee Ashman, Bob Hubbard, Johnnie Penton, Greg Smith, Louis Smolensky, and Andrew Mitchell.

MISS HANCOCK CHAMBER NAMED—Kim Breland, third from right, was named Miss Hancock County Chamber of Commerce for 1983 last weekend. Her maids include, from left, Charlene LaCoste; Marlene Breaux; Barbara Boyd; Jeanne

THE ABUNDANT LIFE

By Shawn Murphy

MINISTER, BAY ST. LOUIS CHURCH OF CHRIST

"I am come that they might have life, and that they might have it more abundantly."

—John 10:10

I suppose bumper stickers are like anything else; there are good ones and there are bad ones. One that caught my imagination recently was one that I observed on Highway 90. It read: Don't follow me... I'm lost too!

The more I thought about it the more I thought of the words of Jesus and the fact that everyone must follow someone.

And then I thought of the lyrics of a recent pop tune in which the chorus proclaimed, "Now you may serve the devil and you may serve the Lord, but you gotta serve somebody!"

And then the words of Jesus rang clear in my mind. No one can serve two masters. Either he will hate the one and love the other, or he will be devoted to the one and despise the other. You cannot serve both God and money.

—Matthew 6:24

And on another occasion Jesus told a crowd:

He who is not with me is against me.

—Luke 11:23

And then it dawned on me that perhaps Satan's greatest deception ever was his ability to convince the average man and woman that not being against Jesus was enough!

Jesus never asked any less of any person than for that person to "follow me."

Now following is not a passive activity. Rather it is an active process that involves listening, hearing, obeying, doing, etc.

Jesus also taught that it involves fellowship, giving, helping, teaching, loving, sharing and witnessing.

And still Satan whispers in John Q. Public's ear, "All you have to do is say I believe."

And Jesus' call remains the same. It is an active: "Follow me!"

Show me your faith without deeds, and I will show you my faith by what I do. You believe that there is a God. Good! Even the demons believe that—and shudder.

—James 2:18, 19

Are you really following Jesus? If you were brought to court because of your faith in Christ, would there be enough evidence to convict you of being a Christian?
